He first started sketching in december 2022, and after 2 years of determination and practice, his sketches had improved day by day. Sheryansh had never taken any art classes, yet he has achieved mastery over his work. This interest of his began due to mere curiosity, and the rest is history.

His work had been published in the Times Of India, student newspaper twice, over a period of 4 months. This young artist has drawn more than 12 sketches till date and each one of them is better than the previous one. Sketching is his passion, which he wishes to continue forward.

How is culture different from heritage?

By Kavya Gupta 9-J

The diversity of India is seen as a burden on our country. However, we also need to look at the culture and heritage brought by the rich and large diversity of our country to understand the ideals of our past and determine where, we as a country stand in the future. Culture is the set of patterns followed by a certain group of people.

It is a system of beliefs, arts, values, norms and languages that can act as a guideline for behaviour. Heritage are the knowledge, rituals, monuments, artefacts, art, and music that are passed down to us from our ancestors. Culture is different from heritage because it constantly changes to suit the values and ideals of the people whereas the beliefs and knowledge we inherited could never be changed.

Culture and heritage both are crucial to promote our country's identity, history and ideals. It is the lifeline of our rich diverse country. Heritage helps us understand the past and learn how we had evolved. It gives us a chance to correct our past mistakes and maintain our traditions.

Freedom: The state of being free

By Sanskriti Suresh 11-D

One of the key aspects of the human race is freedom, a word & concept that resonates differently to different people. As we turn the pages of history we find struggles of many people who had to fight merely to exist as humans. Similarly when we think of freedom we instantly visualise the freedom struggles of various countries and communities including our own.

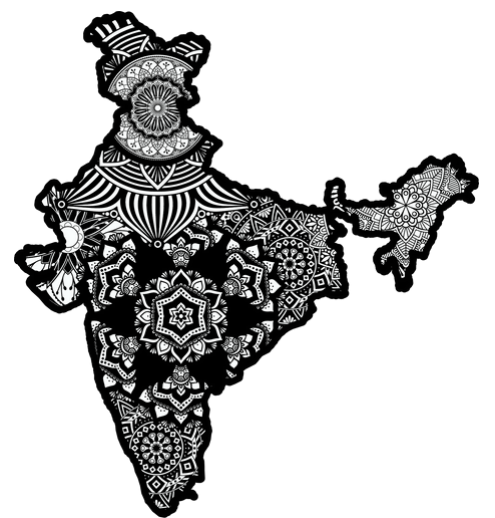

But freedom isn't just a political and social notion confined to the constitution and rights, it is rather a variation of beliefs stemmed and internalised in our brains. Much before society, it is our own responsibility to give freedom to others as well as ourselves to exist authentically according to our beliefs.

It is undoubtedly true that without freedom, potential for human flourishing is significantly constrained, making it a cornerstone of both individual and collective well-being. While external freedoms provide the framework for action, internalised freedom shapes how we, as individuals perceive and utilise these freedoms to lead fulfilling lives.

By Mannya Singhal 11-G

The Bookworm Bonanza, a vibrant book fair held from August 3-10, was an initiative led by ten commerce students from grade 11, with enthusiastic support from volunteers in grades 9 and 11 and was expertly mentored and supported by several teachers and the principal, Mrs. Supriti Chauhan. This was made possible through an opportunity presented by Scholastic's School Internship Program. The fair featured an extensive collection of books across a wide array of genres. Adding to the excitement was the mascot, "The Dog Man," which delighted students and created a lively atmosphere.

A key highlight of The Bookworm Bonanza was the active involvement of the student body and creative activities such as bookmark and poster-making. contests were organized for students of grades 1-8, with the resulting artwork displayed and sold at the fair. Profits from these sales, along with funds raised from various game stalls (including chess, mind games, riddles, tongue twisters, and calligraphy), would be donated to charitable organizations such as Vidya Kendra and Bal Sahyog. Overall, the event saw excellent sales and was marked by the enthusiastic participation of students and visitors alike.

The Quest For Freedom

By "Green"

Eleutheromania,
A heart ablaze with dreams,
Tied by the oppression, the soul screams.
Restless minds grasping for liberty,
Fighters rebelling to create history.
"Freedom is not given, it is taken."
Their sacrifice will never be forsaken!
For every scar, a story profound,
In the quest for freedom, their voices resound.

From Classroom to Commerce: A Student's Journey in the T-Shirt Business

By Shriyash Aditya 9-H

Meet Dharadbeer Singh, the founder of 'Off Topic Clothing'. He followed his passion with resilience and has reached great heights. As a school student, he has defied societal restrictions and expectations. The biggest role in his action of breaking down the judgmental atmosphere around him goes to his parents, who had supported him at every hurdle and helped him gain liberation from stereotypes. He had established a fully-fledged T-shirt brand within a short duration of four months. He says, "With the right people, even the tallest mountain becomes a mere rock. I could not have done it without my peers and the co-founders of the company."

The most important ideal followed by him is consistency. Consistency in action, thoughts, and communication had enabled him to figure out a lot of ideas and plans. He is one of the best examples of achievement through resilience. We all must be inspired from his work. DPS GBN wishes him great success in his future endeavors.

A Tapestry of Freedom

By Shivansh Singh 11-B

In the heart of India's land so vast,
Lies a heritage rich, a history that lasts.
Unity in diversity, cultures entwined,
Patriotism burns in every heart and mind.
From the Himalayas to the southern seas,
A land of freedom, where every soul breathes.
We celebrate our pride, with colors so bright,
In every corner, there's a festival of light.
Independence earned with courage and might,
A nation's spirit soaring to new heights.
In the tapestry of our past, we find our way,
With pride and freedom, we honor this day.
